My Heart Skips A Beat (Forever and Ever #10) E. L. Todd

Cayson claims he can't get back together with Skye, but every time he's around her, the doubts fill his mind. He watches her every move, hypnotized by her beauty and perfection. Every member of the gang tells him he needs to forgive her and let it go, but he isn't sure if he can. But when a handsome businessman comes into Skye's life, Cayson realizes he may have competition.

Silke pushes through the depression of her break up with Arsen, and finds her first ray of hope when she gets a job at a famous museum in the city. Perhaps this is the beginning of a new life for her.

Conrad and Theo try to figure out what to do with their lives. Bantering back and forth, they discover a project they can take on together.

Thomas, Theo's brother, is introduced, and we discover him to be a financial advisor for a prestigious company. Respectful of people in general, he's irritated when a new secretary is hired. Every guy in the office can't stop talking about her wicked beauty and endless curves. Not interested, he focuses on his work. But when he meets her by chance in a coffee shop, he understands why everyone is so fascinated with her.

Trinity gets her own apartment, and Slade immediately spends every waking moment there. When Trinity gets sick, Slade is there to take care of her. But he starts asking odd questions about Skye's new friend, and Trinity begins to wonder if Cayson put him up to it.

Roland's jealous that Conrad is so close to Theo. They do everything together, and now they even live together. When Roland discovers what Conrad and Theo are doing together, he blows his casket and marches off. When Conrad chases him down, they finally talk about what's bothering Roland. Will that bring them closer together?
