A Very Paranormal Holiday J.T. Bock, Debra Dunbar, Mark Henwick, Susan Illene, J.C. Mells, Connie Suttle

There's something supernatural lurking under the mistletoe this year. Get ready for a twist on the holiday season with paranormal tales from six fantasy authors:

"The Grandfather Paradox: An UltraSecurity Christmas Story" by J. T. Bock

A Billionaire, a Christmas Dinner, and the Grandfather Paradox

Nobody has time for this, especially UltraAgent TimeTrap. Between holiday drinks with friends, visiting long-lost family, and her mother's reality show special, TimeTrap's time is limited—even for an alt-jumper like her who can travel through space and time. Another alt-jumper is messing with her mojo and her timeline. UltraAgents are missing. Her bosses have disappeared. Now she has to protect the next target, a hot CEO of a large defense company. Is there enough time to save the day and Christmas and enjoy a holiday cocktail with a special someone?

"The Naughty List" by Debra Dunbar

Samantha Martin is an Imp, on holiday with her angelic main-squeeze, Gregory. What better place to show an angel the true meaning of Christmas than a small Alpine resort town? But it's hard to keep up the impish good cheer when people are being murdered for their sinful ways. Could the killer be. . . Santa?

"The Biting Cold" by Mark Henwick

Detroit. A bitter winter. A city coming apart and a woman holding on to her rapidly ebbing life.

Psychiatrist Dr. Amanda Lloyd is focused only on living long enough to give her testimony in court and put a vicious criminal away. The defense lawyers are fighting for a postponement she can't afford and digging into her own mental problems in an attempt to discredit her.

She can't spare time for the patient who claims to be a vampire.

Unless what he offers her is exactly what she needs.

"Facing the Darkness" by Susan Illene

Kerbasi, a former guardian of Purgatory, has resisted every effort to help him find his humanity. After forty-five hundred years of tending to his prisoners in the cruelest of ways he feels he's above the petty concerns of mankind. But what's he to do when he's charged with bringing comfort to a boy sick with cancer during the holiday season? This is one child who just might break through that impervious wall he's wrapped around his heart.

"Cat and Moused" by J.C. Mells

Moused Thurman was sure there had to be better ways to spend Christmas Eve than being held hostage in an elevator by a sexy, sassy, vampire-assassin.

But for the life of him, he couldn't think of one.

"A Christmas Feral" by Connie Suttle

Cassie is running from the man who forced her to become his fiancée.

Parke is stepping into his father's shoes as Chancellor of everything paranormal.

The two are on a collision course with unpredictable results.

What should you do when a Truth Demon marries a Fire Demon?
Get the hell out of Seattle.
